

Sub A7

Abstract of the Disclosure

The frame of data is partitioned into a plurality of portions of data symbols. A plurality of channel elements (300) is assigned to demodulate data symbols of correspondingly the plurality of portions of data symbols. The number of the plurality of portions of data symbols is higher in a case at high data rate than a case at low data rate.

1. The frame of data is partitioned into a plurality of portions of data symbols. A plurality of channel elements (300) is assigned to demodulate data symbols of correspondingly the plurality of portions of data symbols. The number of the plurality of portions of data symbols is higher in a case at high data rate than a case at low data rate.